

Planning for the future – for you and your community

CHARITABLE REMAINDER TRUST

Giving through a Charitable Remainder Trust allows you to receive income for the rest of your life and provide a gift that will benefit your community.

How it works

- You transfer cash, appreciated stocks, real estate, or other assets into a trust and make your community foundation the irrevocable beneficiary
- The Charitable Remainder Trust allows you to arrange your gift today and receive an immediate tax receipt while enjoying the income, or use, of the gifted asset for your lifetime.
- Upon the beneficiary's death or after a defined period of years, the remaining assets in the trust transfer to the community foundation.
- We set up a fund in your name, in the name of your family or business, or in honour of any person or organization you choose.
- We handle all the administrative details after the fund is established, issuing grants to charities in the name of your fund.
- Your gift can be placed into an endowment that is invested over time. Earnings from your fund are used to make grants addressing community needs. Your gift – and all future earnings from your gift – is a permanent source of community capital, helping to do good work forever.

A gift that pays

James Assad was retired and in his late seventies. The stocks he owned had high market values, but they paid limited dividends. In addition to increasing his personal income, James was interested in giving back to the community in which he had lived his entire life. James decided to transfer his securities to a Charitable Remainder Trust that eventually would create a fund with his local community foundation. "The income I receive from the trust is more than what I was collecting in annual dividends," says James. James also receives an immediate tax credit by making the community foundation the irrevocable beneficiary of the remainder.

"Plus," he says, "I know that when I pass on, I've done something good." In time, James' gift will create the Assad Family Unrestricted Fund to address ever-changing community needs.

JAMES ASSAD

Community means so many things to so many people and the world to us. In all we do, and all we say, we are all for community.

We are part of Canada’s community foundation movement, represented by more than 160 community foundations from coast to coast.

Community vitality has been our purpose, promise and passion since 1921, when we began connecting donors to community needs and opportunities.

Together, we help Canadians invest in building strong and resilient places to live, work and play.
